

Cross-Devices Blacklists for Registered tellows Members

10/08/2018

More and more often, consumers are victims of telephone fraud or have been harassed by frequent unwanted calls. In the phone number community www.tellows.co.uk, many phone owners report and rate the phone numbers that called them and share their experiences with others to warn against dubious calls.

The special feature of the platform tellows is the tellows Score. It is calculated from all previously stored ratings for a specific phone number. Users can report phone numbers and rate them on a scale of 1 (harmless) to 9 (dangerous). From score 7, the corresponding telephone number is placed on a so-called blacklist and thus displayed as dangerous or blocked. Depending on the rating, users can estimate the trustworthiness of a called number. To see the blacklist directly when a call arrives, the tellows App for Apple devices and smartphones with Android was developed. This app already indicates the tellows Score, and thus how serious the calling number is, during ringing.

If users comment negatively on a number, it will immediately be added to the personal blacklist. Particularly noteworthy is that this also works across different devices. In addition to the mobile tellows Apps, the Personal Blacklists can also be used with all other tellows products like the landline solutions.
